BRONCHO BILL The Cowboy Hero

BLUE G. BARD.

The cry of anguish was emitted by Clubfoot Sue when she discovered the captive had escaped.

Spotted Tail and some of his braves were soon in pursuit of the fleeing girl, but she had nearly five hours start and had strayed on and on in the darkness over fallen trees, through tangled vines, saw briers and cactus plants until her feet were bruised and bleeding and her tender hands were torn.

Finally her strength gave out. Human nature could endure no more, and climbing to the top of a small mound, she lay there exhausted.

And thus they found her and carried her back to the camp. Spotted Tail saying, "Ugh! Hear, brave squaw. Make me good wife."

Inez was once more placed in the hands of the Indian women and told if she made another attempt to escape, her life would pay the penalty. The poor girl was too thoroughly exhausted to do anything but moan and bewail her sad fate, but there was one thought that filled her with exaltation and caused her tired heart to accelerate its speed, and that was, somewhere on the wide plains of Texas Broncho Bill was camping on her trail and that sooner or later he would find and rescue her or die in the attempt. This sweet certainty was as dear to her as the ruddy drops that were then visiting her sad heart.

And thus things continued until the night of the fourth day of her captivity.

On the night in question about the hour of midnight a silent figure might have been seen, if it had not been dark, stealing along from tree to tree in the direction of the camp. In one hand he carried a trusty Winchester and in his belt was a Spanish athletto.

As he neared the camp he whistled a low, peculiar whistle something between the call of a wren and the chirp of a cricket.

A small, shapely head in the tent was quickly raised and held in a listening position, then the body was slowly and silently withdrawn in snake fashion until the she was clear of the tent.

Inez had not neglected to wrap a bear skin around her slender form in order to conceal the dimensions she wore.

As she neared the edge of the clearing a manly form rose in front of her and she was clasped in the strong arms of Bronco William, who bore her silently and swiftly to the spot where Bratus was tethered to a swinging limb, then taking the bear-skin robe from her dainty form cut it in pieces and wrapped and tied them around the feet of the noble steed, that the fall of the hoofs might not fall on the ever alert ears of the sleeping savages.

When the morning dawned they were far, beyond the reach of the relentless foe, and e'er the sun had completed his course from the Occident to the Orient and was gliding down the western horizon, as was customary, the happy pair rode up and drew rein in front of the stately pile of adobe in which Inez first saw the light of day.

In a reasonable length of time their nuptials were celebrated in true western style. Bronco William was elected justice of the peace in Mingo county and deals out even handed justice at so much per deal. Inez is the happy mother of several small, towheaded children and delights in watching them making mud pies on the front door step.

And thus we leave them and murmur as we depart, "Honoi qui sort," which means when translated, "May their shadows never grow less."

(THE END.)

No Cause for Alarm

The Madisonville Hustler's

Tuesday edition contains the following:

Considerable excitement was aroused on the streets yesterday morning over the report that Bert Ollinger, who recently came here from Princeton to work in his brother Al's barber shop, had small pox.

He was examined by physicians who claim that the disease was really a mild attack of small pox, but was promptly isolated, the patient and his brother being sent to the pest house last night. We feel that any alarm over the spread of the disease is unnecessary, the doctors being inclined to the opinion that the patient had not arrived at the stage of the disease when the condition could be disseminated. If it is small pox, it is the only case heretofore and being isolated no further danger need be apprehended.

The board of health will take every precaution to stamp it out and no one need feel any uneasiness whatever in coming to town.

Became Obstreperous.

Charles Plackman, (col.,) one of the union organizers, started a row in front of Tony Rocco's place with Charles Woodson, also colored. Friday afternoon, and was promptly arrested by Marshal Craig, who, assisted by Officer Johnson, started with the prisoner to the city hall. When they reached the court house square Plackman became unruly, protesting against going to the lockup, but saying he was going to the court house. The officers forcibly carried the prisoner to jail where he was later released on bond. He was tried Saturday morning before Judge Wilson on two counts, committing a breach of the peace and resisting officers, and fined in both cases $20. When the offenders were committed Plackman was intoxicated. The Woodson negro claims that Plackman first started a "rough house" at the Klondike saloon and drew a pistol on him, but Plackman had no pistol when arrested.—Huster.

SHE FOLLOWED HIS ADVICE.

Husband Gives Pugnacious Pointers to His Wife, Then Testis Her.

A young married woman who belonged to a charity club, and sometimes had to go out alone after dark, was very much afraid of being stopped and robbed. Her husband disliked to provide her with a revolver, but he bought a punching bag, and showed her how to use her fists and where to place the most telling blow in case of molestation.

"Below the belt, mind you," he advised her; "below the belt. Such a blow if properly planted, will make a man sorry quicker than you think. He will step right in front of you, your course will be easy; if he comes up behind you, swing round suddenly and strike out hard. The robber will repent of his evil ways in a hurry."

That night, says London Tit-Bits, was the bride's late evening, and she happened to be coming up the street just in front of her husband when he saw her and the spirit of mischief took possession of him.

"Wonder if she'd really do as I told her, or if her little fists would hurt anyone?" he purred to himself.

Walking up behind his wife, he laid a heavy hand upon her shoulder. He had no time in which to say anything, and she made no effort in that direction. She simply obeyed his instructions to the letter, swung round with a suddenness which completely disconcerted him, and delivered a blow that made all true. The she held him with the strength and energy of a frightened deer, not even waiting to cast a single glance at the disconcerted man who had as yet not even dared to move to her. She passed the remainder of the evening in alternately weeping out her woes and then hitting his shoulder and wondering why he looked so pale.

The Little Children's Party.

Eddie and Lillie Chatten gave a delightful party at their residence on Main street Tuesday night, to the host of little friends. The children were on their good behavior and acted unusually well. Some few of them got sleepy and cried to go home about midnight; others wept because they ate too much candy and cake, and still others because they could not eat any more. After playing "King William," "Gathering Grapes," "Cross Questions," "Peeping at Susie," and "Frog in the Well," the children, whose dear little shins were marshalled, into the dining room where refreshments were served by the charming host and hostess, assisted by Katherine Chatten, Bess and Edith Weller and Annie Anderson, four awfully sweet girls who they did get snappy stuck on their dresses.

After supper Little Mug McGary played tag and every one of the children care-walked. Tommy Trahern could step higher than any one else and he secured the prize. About the time the two hours were up to the amazement of the other children couldn't hear themselves talk and as it was near midnight and their mamma's told them not to stay late they all went home feeling good and kinder happy and hoping Eddie and Little would do the same thing over some time.

The guests were: Misses George Evans, Josie Arnold, Mollie McGary, Mary Rash, Sudie Atkinson, Carrie and Lucy Rash, Nellie Carl, Leslie Moore, Mabel Martin, Eddie Dean, Minnie Bourland, Annie and Nellie Ash, Eddie and Mung McGary, Annie Coyle, Annie Moore, Laura Victory, Aggie Burr, Mele Price, Ethie Evans, Mary Gordon, Dinkle Fawcett, Annie Anderson, Bess and Eddie Waller; Masters Danne Evans, Frankie Arnold, Tommy Trahern, George Mothershead, Ampy Sisk, Frankie Rash, Eddie Rash, Cuty Johnson, Watty McGary, Charlie Hopkins McGary, Willie Gordon, Riley Coyle and Timmie Fawcett.

Eined Littlepage Killed.

This morning at 5 o'clock Ernest Littlepage a switchman in the yard, while making a coupling had his foot caught by the wheel and fell under the cars and one pair of trucks passed over both legs. He was also hurt inwardly. When Engineer Huff stopped the engine Littlepage's body was found wedged between the end of the board of the car and the steel. He was carried to Dr. Chatten's office where medical attendance was given him but to no avail. He passed away about seven o'clock. Mr. Littlepage was a railroad man of considerable experience, having been a conductor on this division for a number of years, and then going into business at Madisonville. He had only been working in the yard about a week. His wife and mother came over from Madisonville, reaching him before he died. Ernest had won many friends during his railroad life and they all tender their deepest sympathy to the bereaved family. His remains will be laid to rest at Browder's Chapel tomorrow afternoon.

Tribute to the Steady Subscriber.

A Texas editor keeps this reminder at the head of his editorial columns:

How dear to my heart is the steady subscriber

Who pays in advance at the birth of each year—

Who lauds the dollar and offers it gladly;

And casts 'round the office a halo of cheer.

Who never says: "Stop it; I can't afford it!"

Or, "I'm getting more papers than I can read."

But always says: Send it; the family like it;

In fact, we think it's a household need."

How welcome he is when he steps in the sanctum.

How he relieves our heart throb,

How he makes our eyes dance

We outwardly bless him;

The steady subscriber who pays in advance.

Tribute to the Steady Subscriber.

A Texas editor keeps this reminder at the head of his editorial columns:

How dear to my heart is the steady subscriber

Who pays in advance at the birth of each year—

Who lauds the dollar and offers it gladly;

And casts 'round the office a halo of cheer.

Who never says: "Stop it; I can't afford it!"

Or, "I'm getting more papers than I can read."

But always says: Send it; the family like it;

In fact, we think it's a household need."

How welcome he is when he steps in the sanctum.

How he relieves our heart throb,

How he makes our eyes dance

We outwardly bless him;

The steady subscriber who pays in advance.

OVER SIXTY LIVES LOST.

Burning of the Steamer City of Pittsburgh Off Turner's Landing, Illinois.

PASSENGERS IN BED AT TIME OF ALARM.

An Indescribable Panic Ensued on Board and Many Lives Were Lost by Jumping Overboard, While a Number Are Known to Have Perished Miserably in the Flames.

Cairo, Ill., April 21.—The side-wheel steamer City of Pittsburgh, which came from Cincinnati to Memphis, was burned to the water's edge early yesterday morning at Turner's Landing, near Olmstead, Ill., 11 miles from Memphis City, and 24 miles from this landing. The only reports stated that 62 lives were lost, and that many were badly burned and otherwise injured, but the list of casualties is not yet definitely determined. Two boats and a number of small boats from the city went to the scene for relief. Efforts were made to catch the "New South" of the same line at Paducah and have live steam back for relief, but the steamer had passed Paducah upward-bound before the fire-gran was received.

Most of the passengers were still in bed when Second Clerk Oliver Phillips gave the alarm. The engineers at once started all of the pumping engines, while the crew brought all the life boats.

Amid the streams of water on all sides, the flames from the lower deck and dense clouds of smoke, the passengers rushed to their stations and a frightful panic ensued. The appeals of the officers and crew could not appease the terror-stricken crowd that interfered with those trying to escape from the flames as well as those working with the lifeboats. Few could adjust life preservers or do anything else for themselves. The smoke was stifling. Green clouds floated through the burning steamer, casting long shadows, and adding to the terror. Children cried pitifully and begged that they be saved. They knew as well as their elders that death confronted them, and clung to their loved ones, and when they alone could have them.

The lifeboats were manned and every effort was made to save the passengers from the floating furnace of flames. Sturdy boatmen rowed as they never had before in the heroic work of rescue.

From the river banks the sparks from the burning craft and the dense clouds of smoke, tinged with tongues of flames from the violent heat of fire made the most impressive, yet weird, spectacle.

Boats were sent from the shore to work in the rescue, but the flames were only too surely consuming the rescue boats, destroying to save all from the inferno. Boats driven to their limit with passengers in such scant attire as they were able to gather, were landed at the river banks. As fast as one boat could be emptied, another was sent for waiting to catch a breath of rest.

The burning steamer was quickly headed to the bank, but passengers had to jump off the stern and trying to swim across, through the swift current many were drowned.

Many also perished in the flames. Only one yawl was saved without ours, and the women were taken off. About 100 of the party were taken off in the yawl. The men were picked up off the water. Help, except from people living near by, did not arrive until 2:30 p. m., and passengers had only nightclothes and without food or water.

The fire started in the forward hatch, larboard, and burned fiercely. When the steamer ran ashore escapes were made over the cabin railing. Very few of the passengers or the crew were aware of the fire until it was too late. The captain and clerk claim in all 80 persons have been accounted for. The steamer Miss Kilgore, Capt. Cole, brought the survivors to the pier at 6 p. m., and the several societies of the city rendered all assistance in the way of clothing, etc.

COSTLY FIRE AT DALLAS, TEX.

Two Persons Fatally Injured and Over a Quarter of a Million in Property Swept Away.

Dallas, Tex., April 21.—Two persons were fatally injured; five Chief Magee was prostrated, and a property loss of fully $70,000 was caused by several fires which broke out after three o'clock yesterday morning. At that hour an alarm was turned from the Dursey printing establishment, and in a short time one of the fiercest conflagrations which has visited Dallas for years was in progress. The fire spread to touch the firemen, several other alarms from different parts of the city were turned in in quick succession.

After fighting the fire for two hours, Capt. Magee was prostrated, and the command was turned over to an assistant. The chief was rescued from the flames by the police, who was unconscious for several hours, but was later reported out of danger. Fireman William Spurr was struck in the face by a flying brick and fatally injured.

A LETTER TO ROOSEVELT.

An Open Argument Against the British Horse and Mule Traffic
In the United States.

THE TREATY OF WASHINGTON QUOTED.

Attention Called to the Insistence of Great Britain Upon the Observance of the Treaty Immediately
Upon Our Declaration of War
Against Spain in 1898.

Chicago, April 19.—Peter Van Vlissingen, who has been one of the most active friends of the Boers in Chicago, has sent to President Roosevelt an open letter advancing an argument against the British mule traffic in the United States. He declares that the traffic is in violation of the treaty of Washington.

"Article 6 of that treaty," the letter reads, "lays down three rules by which the arbitrators are to be governed. The second rule declares 'a neutral government has the right to permit the use of its ports or waters by the ships of any belligerent to make use of its ports or waters as the ships of naval operations against the other, or for the purpose of renewal or augmentation of military supplies or arms or the recruitment of men.'

Farther along, the letter says:

"Great Britain made no scruple of asserting the terms of the treaty of Washington against this country upon the first and only occasion when an armed conflict with a foreign state, April 26, 1898, the day after war was declared between the United States and Spain, Queen Victoria issued a proclamation of neutrality, insisting upon observance of the rules of the treaty."

"In this proclamation Great Britain insists that her ports and waters shall not be used to abet the military activity of belligerent powers, and we now request the enforcement of this rule."

By the classification prepared by the state department, published by Secretary Long, June 29, 1898, in his "Instructions to the Ambassadors and Ministers," a general order 602, paragraph 19) horses are designated as "absolutely contraband" of war. If additional argument were needed to prove that horses have been considered contraband in war by the United States government, the following instances in which they have been so classed might be cited:

In the treaty between the United States and Brazil (treaties and conventions, 1889, p. 105), Art. 15.

Treaty between the United States and Colombia (treaties and conventions, 1889, p. 186), Art. 17.

Treaty between the United States and Hayti (treaties and conventions, 1889, p. 151), Art. 29.

Treaty between the United States and Peru (treaties and conventions 1889, p. 191), Art. 18.

Treaty between the United States and Sweden and Norway (treaties and conventions 1886, p. 142), Art. 9.

Mr. Van Vlissingen has been at work for months preparing material for this letter.

MILL AND LUMBER BURNED.

Coolly Flumes at Gentry, Ill.—Fire which originated yesterday afternoon in the Gem City Sawmill Co.'s plant, destroyed valuable lumber, value $10,000, and caused the death of one woman from shock. After consuming the sawmill and planing mill the fire burned over nearly ten acres piled with lumber. Two of the city fire departments were summoned to the flames by the firemen and converted into molten metal. The fire also burned parts of two bridges on the Carthage branch of the Burlington road, together with several right of ways, extending from Western Union and Illinois Distiles poles and wires for half a mile along the Burlington road. The stables of the sawmill company, with several horses, were burned, also a large house, and contents belonging to A. Compton, of St. Louis, and a number of residences.

FIFTY DWELLINGS BURNED.

Sixty Families Rendered Homeless in Kansas City, Mo.—One Person Fatally Injured.

Kansas City, Mo., April 21.—A destructive fire swept through the southwest part of the city yesterday, laying waste a section of dwelling houses almost a quarter of a mile long and a block wide and doing damage to the amount of $100,000. John Quinn, of Quincy, Ill., a spectator, was fatally injured by a falling piece of iron, and Edward Bennett, a fireman, was overcome by heat.

Food Prices in Washington.

Washington, April 21.—The question of food prices here as elsewhere, is becoming a serious one, and housekeepers are becoming alarmed over the prospect of a further increase in the cost of living, which is now higher than it has been known to be in many years.

Tutt's Liver Pill.

It now seems that old Kentucky will be present when the great St. Louis Fair is thrown open to the world. The Louisville Commercial Club has set actively to work to secure a creditable Kentucky exhibit at the Louisiana Purchase exposition. A committee of thirty-four representative men have been chosen, representing all the leading interests, to take the matter in hand. Each county will have a chairman, and every district an organization. The president of the Commercial Club has received from all parts of the state letters commanding the movement and promising hearty support. From the encouragement received, it is believed there will be no difficulty in raising a fund of $100,000 with which to provide a suitable building and exhibit.

The faces of the old soldiers are turned Southward. Far away, within the domain of the Lone Star State, they already see the camp-fires of the coming Reunion. They will gather in Dallas this week from all sections of the Southland—these old gray veterans, who less than forty years ago, fought so gallantly for what they believed to be right—but who today would protect just as willingly the honor of the one flag of us all. The day is not far off when these annual reunions will have been consolidated into the one final reunion above and the earthly reunions will be no more. Therefore gather together, you who remain, relate again of old tales, and enjoy these pleasures while you may. The final roll call is not far distant.

Loudon is a poor location for the coronation. There are not enough mansions in the city to accommodate the American millionaires.

"I stood in a draught with my coat off and caught this cold in my collar," says a student. He need not pay a heavy penalty if he follows his act of folly with an act of wisdom. Soak the feet in hot water, a few teaspoonfuls of Perry Davis' Painkiller. Take a teaspoonful of Painkiller in hot sweetened water at bedtime and be thankful for the result. "I already have a way to break up a cold. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis."

Some of the New York restaurants now have "smoking rooms for ladies." They should be more explicit and label them "smoking rooms for perfect ladies."

"I never knew Painkiller to fail before, with the exception of the bottle? There, I thought so; it is not Perry Davis' Painkiller at all, but something the druggist must have put in it. I am sure it not much; it has been Painkiller for years for diarrhea, cramps and stomachaches and it never failed."

AMERICAN WOMEN AT THE CORONATION

They Will Shine
Conspicuously
Both
In the Official
and Social Functions

WHEN King Edward VII of England is crowned at Westminster abbey next June, American women will shine conspicuously in the gorgeous pageant. No less than thirteen American ladies and fair maidens will by right of royal appointment be present in the King's train. Eleven of these are princesses of the realm, and two gain the honor by virtue of being wives of the eldest sons of peers. Three of the ladies will wear the coronet of duchesses, one is a marchioness, four are countesses, and three bear the title of baroness.

Besides these will be the ladies connected with the diplomatic corps and the special embassy which will represent this country at the coronation.

DUCHESSES OF MARLBOROUGH.

Many noble, titled and otherwise, will be prominent figures at the social festivities which will mark the coronation season the most brilliant London has seen.

America's fair representatives in the ranks of the peeresses are led by Consuelo Vanderbilt, who became the Duchess of Marlborough in 1895. By marriage to Oscar, 9th Earl of Bessborough, former Duchess of Manchester, who was for many years the only American duchess in the peerage, and Helen Zimmerman of Cincinnati, who became the Duchess of Manchester two years ago.

The Marchioness of Dufferin and Ava is the only American wife of a British marquis. She was Miss Florence Davis of New York and went to Dufferin, the son of the 10th Duke of Cheshire. He only succeeded to the title a few weeks ago on the death of his father, the Marquess of Dufferin and Ava.

The four countesses Lady Eustace, Lady Craven, Lady Montrose and was married to George Drexel, the seventh earl, nine years ago. Lady Craven was also a New Yorker, Cornelia Bradley Martin, whose marriage to the Earl of Craven a few years ago to New York, was the most brilliant event of the season. Lady Dungougham was Miss Elena M. Grace, niece of William R. Grace, formerly mayor of New York. Lady Dungougham was born in London twelve years ago, but was only a few months ago that she became the bride of the Earl of Dungougham.

President-Elect Tomas Estrada Palma of Cuba Once More on Cuban Soil.

ENTHUSIASTIC RECEPTION AT GIBARA.

The Place Which He Left Twenty-Eight Years Ago, an Exile in Cuba, Receives Him with Open Arms, With Every Manifestation of Joy.

New York, April 22.—Gen. Tomas Estrada Palma, president-elect of the Cuban Republic, who arrived on the sooner. Admiral Parraga from Old Point Comfort, Va., was greeted, says a Gibara (Cuba) dispatch to the Tribune, with great enthusiasm. Gibara's population of 6,000 was augmented by as many more who came from all parts of the island to greet him. He is to pay homage to a man they love. During the voyage the weather was magnificent, and Gen. Palma's forebodings of sea sickness were not realized.

When Palma first was ushered to Gibara's harbor a salute of 21 guns greeted President Palma. His face brightened at the scene before him. How different was his return to Cuba! He left many relatives and country folk with him, south, deeply in woe and woes. The harbor was a kaleidoscope of color and animation. From every craft flew the flag of Cuba Libre and the Stars and Stripes. Old friends who had known Gen. Palma for ten years' war, and who shared with him the hardships and sufferings of many campaigns, came on board and embraced him. Many were tears. The vessel was soon crowded with members of the Cuban exiles, with their families, who came out to welcome him and launces which were decorated from stem to stern, from the mast to the water line. After a quarter of an hour of informal talk Gen. Palma, his family were taken ashore in his launch. It was soon time he put his foot on shore at the pier that the pent-up enthusiasm of his compatriots broke forth in earnest. There were rounds of cheering by the crowd, and the cheering of the president-elect, which could be heard clear across the bay. Mayor Gutierrez spoke a few words of welcome, and then proposed "three cheers for the first president of the Cuban Republic." They were given with a will.

With the village band playing Cuban hymns, a procession was formed to the principal street, whence the president-elect and members of the exiles were drawn in review, in a scene of stalwart Cuban to the city hall. Every place of vantage along the route was filled. Men, women and children crowded and pushed and jostled to get a view of the heroes.

Archs had been built across every street which led to the city hall. Not a house in all Gibara was without decorations of some sort.

From every side the flag of Cuba, and from almost as many were displayed the flag of the United States, while the red and yellow colors of Spain were conspicuous on the Spanish houses. The Spaniards joined in the welcome, and the scenes of red and yellow figured prominently in the decorations. A procession, headed by a detachment of the Tenth United States cavalry, commanded by Lieutenant John Clegg, up of local civic organizations, school children, and so proceeded with the Cuban party to the city, and then lined up on each side to allow his carriage to pass.

CONDITION OF THE CROPS.

The National Weather Bureau's Weekly Summary of the Crop Situation.

Washington, April 23.—The weather bureau's weekly summary of crop conditions is as follows:

The week ending April 2nd was warmer than the average in the Pacific coast and Rocky mountain regions, in the Midwest, South and the Great Lakes area, but cool in the Northeast.

It was too cool in the middle Atlantic and southern states and decidedly dry over the greater part of the central valley and middle Atlantic states.

It is badly needed in the Great Lakes, in the Great Lakes and central valley states, and would prove beneficial in the middle Atlantic states, while excess of moisture has hindered farm work in portions of the central valley and the Great Lakes. The week was marked by abnormally high temperatures in Kansas and Nebraska, intensifying the drought conditions in eight states. The general weather conditions, although not covering the rapid advance of vegetation, were very favorable for farming operations in nearly all parts of the country.

The progress of corn planting has been rather slow, except in Missouri, where the crop is well along. It has not been finished in the central and western Gulf districts. A large acreage of ground is prepared for planting in the states of the central valley, and some planting has been done in southern Illinois, but not much in southern Illinois, but not much in Ohio, Indiana and Michigan.

The early planted corn is coming up in southern Kansas, where cultivation has begun.

Wheat planting continued, to take advantage of the favorable weather, and some has been taken in the central valley states. The outlook in California continues promising and the crop has experienced improvement in the central Pacific coast.

The winter wheat in the central Mississippi valley states oats are making slow growth and are much in need of rain and warm weather. In the south and states a very general improvement has indicated. Seeding is well advanced in the northern districts, excepting New England and the northern portion of the middle Atlantic states.

Very good progress has been made in corn planting, except in the state of Tennessee, in the Carolinas and Florida, and planting is nearing completion over the southern portion of the cotton belt. Over most of Texas cotton is in to a good percentage stands. In the South and Lower Mississippi, plants are doing well, but in Virginia, the Carolinas and Kentucky they are small, and in places irregular. Some transplanting has been done in South Carolina.

The general outlook for fruit, except for peaches, in portions of the Ohio and central Mississippi valley, continues promising, no injury having resulted from the frost in the districts east of the Rocky mountains.

Apple blossoms are generally in full bloom, and the buds are in need of warmth and moisture.

CONSCIENCE.

BY A. H.

Upon a rose-lined table in a room
Lay an open book, so spotless, white and fair.

I knew that God's own hand had placed it there
And left it stannous as the lily's bloom.

At length poor Love in melancholy
gloom
Chanced by. He entered in to offer prayer.

And wrote upon the first leaf, mu-
-aware

That he had soiled the page and
sealed his doom,
For when he came again, deceit and sin

And lust and avarice and appetite
Came with him and with him old

Their strange cautions on the leaves therein.

And lo, that book of Conscience,
that had been

As white as snow, was black as night.

The Supreme Court of West Virginia has just rendered a decision in which it justifies a wife
in deserting a drunken husband, and grants her dower rights. The language used is: "No woman is compelled to live with the worst of all brutes—a drunken brute—to the peril of her health and life, but she has a right to leave him and live apart from him until he furnishes her undu-itable evidence of reformation."

A fight is on between prohibitionists and the liquor traffic in faraway New Zealand and the question is to be settled at the polls in a few months. The issue has assumed a condition there that ought to exist in the States, but to our shame does not, an out and out fight between the church on one side and the liquor element on the other.

Mr. John G. Woolley, who is a host in himself, was engaged to go there in May and remain until after the election, but has recently cancelled his engagement
on account of the work at home.

The King's Herald in a recent number gives the following arguments against the use of tobacco:

"It is unnatural. If God had intended it to be used, He would have created an appetite for it.

"Being a deadly poison it injures not only those who use it,
but all others who are in close touch with them.

"It is exceedingly offensive to many people. Hence, those who use it make themselves obnoxious to those whose respect they should cultivate.

"It is murderous. Many babes
are born with a diseased body, caused by the nicotine in the blood of its father. Again, many babes are injured by being obliged to inhale the poisoned breath
of the father who is smoking
while holding his baby."

Mark Twain says: "As far as my experience goes, wine is a clog to the pen, not an inspiration.
I have never seen the time
when I could write to my satisfaction after drinking even one glass of wine."

One of the most encouraging signs of the times we believe, is the steps now being taken by the liquor men towards an organization to fight the Prohibitionists.
We say encouraging because it is such positive evidence of the strength of the Prohibitionists.

It is a matter of history that when the information reached the Confederate capital that President Lincoln had called for 75,000 men with which to subdue
the rebellion, the news was received with peals of laughter at the idea that 75,000 men could do it. Nevertheless, the laughter ceased and the rebellion came to an end.

Just so, the liquor men for years have been laughing in their sleeves at the efforts of the Prohibitionists. That they now realize it is time for them to begin sawing wood is shown by their recent meeting at the Galt House in Louisville, where a prominent distiller said: "A prohibition movement is sweeping over the Southwest and liquor interests are being hurt. In Michigan, Maine and Kansas, prohibition is also strong. We want to show these people with speakers and literature, that in passing prohibition measures they only reduce their revenue and do not benefit their States." He also said:

"We have received numerous letters from distilling firms offering us $100, $200, $400 and $500 a year for five years to carry on this work. Concerns with more capital will give more money."

This is certainly good news, for there is nothing the temperance people will enjoy more than a free fight in an open field. Let them come on with their speakers and their literature—their facts and their figures. Nothing will so arouse the people and set them to thinking and investigating for themselves, and that is what the country needs, an aroused public sentiment. Not a few facts and figures can be furnished by the temperance folks.

The business of selling liquor in this country is looked down upon,
and a stigma rests upon the man who is engaged in the business. The debt of $100,000,000,000 is a clear intelligence of the community in which the liquor dealer resides, but the loss of caste is clearly discernible and you can't get away from it."— Liquor Trade Review.

Then why not get away from the business?

A letter sent out by the Kentucky State Liquor League and read before the Senate by Senator
Howard the day the Farris
Local Option Bill was defeated:

"Lexington, Ky.,
"Feb. 27, 1902.

Dear Sir:

"The Farris Local Option Bill
is now pending before our Legislature. It was held in the Senate Committee on Religion and Morals as long as possible by the friends of the liquor men. The Senate Committee reported the bill without recommendation, and on last Friday it was placed among the orders of the day, and will come up in regular order of business during the next week and be voted on in the Senate. The best opinion gathered from our friends at Frankfort forces us to the belief that it will require books and funds to kill this bill.

Another matter demanding attention and immediate action from liquor men is the attempt in the Revenue and Taxation Bill now before the lower branch to increase of the Legislature to increase the State and county licenses of the retail liquor dealer from $10 to $90 per year. The Kentucky distillers, brewers and wholesale dealers are making the same preparation we are, to resist the passage of both these bills, and we seek by this appeal to raise about $3,000 among the retail dealers.

"It is to be deplored that this attack of our enemies, the Prohibitionists, upon our interests
discloses a lack of organization among the whiskey people. On the other hand, it is certain, and should be a matter of congratula-tion to dealers to feel that a prompt response to this circular letter will enable us to put our opponents out of the fight for two years, and it is to be hoped,

before 1904, when the Legislature again convenes, there will be such an organization of the liquor forces as will make us strong enough upon the floors of both the House and Senate to take the initiative in obtaining favorable legislation, instead of fighting adverse measures. Kindly answer this letter promptly. A printed list containing the name, postoffice address, amount given to this fund will be forwarded to each subscriber on or before the 15th day of March, 1902.

"Try to realize what the loss of this fight means to you and your property interests. Send what you feel able, no matter
how little, and send it at once.
Remittance can be made by check, postoffice money order or Adams Express to the undersigned.

Yours truly,

L. B. SHAW,
President Kentucky State
Liquor League.

The voters of Kentucky can see clearly from this letter,
what the issue of the next legislative campaign are to be, and when the question of "Who killed Baby?" will have to be answered.

Referring to the modest sum required, The White Ribbon
very pertinently asks, "What district is it, the market value of whose representation is placed at 90 cents."

Nothing Left.

I came to a mill by the river side
A hand long and slender as wide,
With a forest of staves and an army
of men.

Tolling at furnace and shovel and pea.

"What a most magnificent place!" I
cried.

And a man with a smudge on his face replied,

"It's Morgan's."

I entered a train and rode all day...
On a royal coach and right of way
Which reached out its armal over the land

In a system too large to understand.
"A splendid property this!" I cried.

And a man with a plan on his hat
replied,

"It's Morgan's."

I sailed on a great ship trim and true
From passion to keel, and cabin to crew.

And the ship was one of a monster fleet.

A first-class navy could scarce compete.

"What a beautiful craft she is!" I
cried,

And a man with akimbo legs replied.

"It's Morgan's."

I dwelt in a nation filled with pride,
Her people were many, her lands
were wide.

Her record in war, and science, and art.

Proved greatness of muscle, and mind, and heart.

"What a grand country it is!" I
cried,

And a man with his chest in the air
replied.

"It's Morgan's."

I went to Heaven. The jasper walls
Towered high and wide, and the golden halls.

Shone bright around. But, a strange new mark

Was over the gate, viz., "Private Park."

Why, what is the meaning of this?" I
cried.

And a saint with livery on replied,

"It's Morgan's."

I went to the other place, "I'll take a chance in the boat on Brimstone Lake.

Or, perhaps, I may be allowed to sit
On the griddle floor of the bottom
But a seering lout with horns on his face

Cried out, as he forked me off the place.

"It's Morgan's."

Miss Moore Entertained

On last Friday evening Miss Celeste Moore entertained in honor of Miss Mabel Martin, of Springfield, Mass. The friends were most numerous and the evening was spent in the enjoyment of the evening being a prize contest.

Delightful refreshments were served and at a late hour the guests dispersed, leaving pleasant thoughts and wishing for many other such occasions.

A nice job of painting.

Mr. Chas. McFadden has just completed painting Charley Gary's house and it is one of the best pieces of work I have seen in some time. Mr. McFadden is a painter who thoroughly understands his work and never turns out a bad job.

W. B. Barter went fishing Wednesday, and caught a five pound bass. Mr. Barter is naturally proud of this fine catch.

SUFFERED THREE YEARS.
CATARRH OF STOMACH.

Miss Evelyn Morse writes from 651 Adams Street, Minneapolis, Minn., as follows:

"I suffered for nearly three years with catarrh of the stomach which nothing seemed to relieve, until a friend advised me to try Peruna. Although I tried it, and found it helped me within the first week. I kept on taking it for three months, and am pleased to say that it cured me entirely, and I have had no symptoms of its return. I am only too glad to recommend it."

EVELYN MORSE.

Miss Evelyn Morse writes from 651 Adams Street, Minneapolis, Minn., as follows:

"After using your wonderful Peruna three months, I have had great relief. I had continual headaches in my stomach and head, and found a special remedy that they all have lost since using Peruna. I can now get around and do my housework, and think Peruna the greatest medicine I ever used."—Adel Brattin, Louisville, Ky.

Mr. Eddie Birkin is 102 Delver street, Cleveland, Ohio, writes:

"I candidly feel Peruna was the means of saving my life, for I suffered for months from catarrh of the stomach. Two bottles of Peruna cured me."—Mrs. Lizzie Blevins.

"I found Peruna gives prompt and antistomatic results from the use of Peruna, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis."
